FINANCIAL AID

WITHDRAWAL POLICY

This policy is separate and distinct from Edgewood's Tuition Refund Policy (below)!

Prior to the 60% point in the semester, financial aid is earned for each day of the semester you are enrolled. When you withdraw completely from Edgewood before finishing the semester, federal regulations require Edgewood to determine the amount of financial aid you have "earned." The remaining aid must be sent back. For example, if you withdrew at the 20% point of the semester, you've only "earned" 20% of your federal financial aid. The other 80% of the federal financial aid you were awarded must be returned.

Terms and definitions:

- The 60% point is calculated based on the number of calendar days within the official start and end dates of the semester (excluding any scheduled breaks of at least five calendar days).
- At the time of withdrawal, Edgewood will return the financial aid funds they are required to return. In certain situations, a student may be asked to repay financial aid funds he or she had received that semester as the result of a previous credit balance.
